FRENCH AND GERMANS IN HAND-TO-HAND COMBAT FOR 1 DAY AT SOISSONS

Field Littered With Dead, Having Fallen Where They Stood Fighting; Letters From Home Filled With Pathos

BEFORE SOISSONS, Jan. 18.—(By Courier to Berlin, Jan. 20; via London, Jan. 21.)—The following is the second part of a dramatic story of the battle of Soissons, the first part of which was sent out the night of January 20. The delay in transmission of this second part occurred between Berlin and London. In the first section of the story, which was written at the field headquarters of an unnamed German general, he battle of Soissons was likened to the battle of Antietam, with the French on the ground over which it was fought. Eight days of fighting had resulted in the French being driven from the heights whence they had expected to mount a fresh offensive movement. The losses in these encounters were very heavy.

The battle began January 13. A series of bombardments from both sides were followed by a general charge. The Germans could not make an effective defense against this onslaught. The French with great dash, carried part of the German positions, but by their successive dashes damped the vigor of their artillery bombardment, which could not be continued without endangering their own men.

The German guns in turn opened a heavy fire on the rearward communications of the French, preventing the bringing up of reinforcements. Another hand-to-hand struggle, in fairly even terms, raged for four days and nights in the valley and on the wooded spur crowned by the shot-wrecked buildings of the La Perrière farm. Neither side was able to gain a decisive advantage.

Von Kluck's Counter-Stroke.

General von Kluck meanwhile was gathering his forces for a counterstroke, which came not through the valley, but across the high plateau to the eastward, a large part of which was held by the French. The surface of the plateau, which is fairly level, was crossed by row after row of deep trenches, each trench with a clear field for the fire of its guns.

It seems impossible, in the cold light of day and after the passage of the excitement of battle, to conceive of troops successfully storming such entrenched positions. The Associated Press correspondent quoted in some places as many as five successive lines of entrenchments, each with its entrenchment of barbed wire, supported by iron posts, which were driven into the ground. The entrenchments of the preceding sides of the Aisne valley and the French positions on the opposite hills, situated in full view below, seemed completely closed with the towers of the cathedral and the Thirteenth century abbey emerging from the maze of stone houses.

Uncanny Feeling of Insecurity.

The promenade along the exposed side of the plateau, in sight of Soissons, and the bank of the Aisne held in force by the French, gave a rather uncanny feeling of insecurity. How ever, it was less dangerous than it seemed, as a slight haze rendered the little group in German field gray, invisible on the opposite side of the valley, and the infant in the valley itself, although nearer, was too far below to direct an effective fire. The haze also made it impossible to ascertain to what extent Soissons had suffered under bombardment.

The battlefield is still dotted with corpses by the hundreds, principally of French soldiers who fell during their hasty retreat from the trenches.

The French, however, were General von Kluck's veterans, who, after the famous dash on Paris, the battle of the Marne and the retreat to the Aisne, had been remaining here in comparative inactivity since the middle of September.

Their success had somehow in every case been won at the cost of a heavy price, showing that death was not instantaneous and that perhaps a last service had been rendered to them by their fleeing comrades. Three or four had managed to draw from their pockets packages of black French cigarettes for a final smoke before passing away. Most of the bodies, with pointed toward the abandoned French trenches, lay either by their sides or often still clutched at shattered bands.

One Avenue of Escape Cut Off.

The earlier operations made this comparatively easy; in fact, many of the French had no alternative but to surrender, as the only path of escape over which a retreat might have been attempted was commanded completely from the plateau above.

The correspondent reached the battlefield over the turnpike leading from Soissons, approaching by automobile as far as the village of Crouty, a scant mile from the French outposts, which were the scene three days earlier of desperate combats. The road is up into the side of the hill between the plateau and the valley. The rocky margin of roadside on one hand before the drop into the valley had become one long cemetery. The Germans had interred there their dead of past months in long rows, graves surrounded by a stone or wood cross, telling sometimes a story of 20 or 30 or more commandos of men. On the opposite side of the road were entrances to numerous ruined stone quarries, driven several hundred feet into the talus. Within the quarries had been buried German troops, the number in each case varying from a company to a regiment.

The village of Crouty itself presented the familiar picture of half-burnt walls in ruins, with the remains of the inhabitants scattered about, the only signs of life being the German soldiers who had been scattered about the village.

There was little feeling of horror or revulsion at the sight of these hundreds of corpses, their number soon to be increased by the thousands of men who had fallen in the battle.

On the plateau, however, open country when old was full of the horrors of the battle, the severity of the ground, the hand-to-hand fighting.

It was here, in the valley, in the shadow of the trees, as the Germans were seen quickly, that ready to explode as modern triggers, the strongest explosives ever known, exploded, scattering the bodies of the dead.

PEACE AND PREPARATION

THE New York Peace Society, of which Mr. Carnegie is president, has sent to President Wilson a letter commending his views on the subject of military preparedness, as expressed in his message to Congress in December. The letter contains this statement:

We are in agreement, also, with your interpretation of the principles which underlie our national policy of defense, viz., that in the future, as in the past, we shall maintain a powerful navy as our natural means of defense, but never for aggression; that our system of state and national militia shall be extended as an orderly manner and be maintained on such a basis as to constitute an adequate land defense, but that we shall not keep a large standing army, or navy in the direction of unnecessary military services; that the Army and Navy shall be kept in a high state of efficiency.

It is refreshing to find a peace society, especially one presided over by Mr. Carnegie, thus formally endorsing a powerful navy, the extension of the militia, and the maintenance of the Army and Navy in a high state of efficiency. But it is hard to reconcile these assertions with the qualifications and reservations added to them. The New York Peace Society declares in the same letter against "extraordinary additions at this time to our Army and Navy, or extraordinary agitation looking toward such additions." But both the Army and Navy are admittedly in a deplorable state of inefficiency, which cannot be remedied without extraordinary additions. Unless such additions are made, then, how are they to be "kept in a high state of efficiency?"

When men like Mr. Carnegie attempt to reconcile their hard business common-sense with their chimerical ideas of universal peace the results are apt to be—as in this case—somewhat confused.

FOREIGN TRADE IN DECEMBER

WHO said that statistics are uninteresting? The kind that appear in the monthly report of the Department of Commerce on foreign trade ought to interest even the pessimists who believe that the country is suffering from hard times. For instance:

Last August when, by reason of the outbreak of the war, our foreign trade fell to the lowest level reached in many years, exports amounted to a little more than $4,100,000,000. Then the orders for war munitions and supplies began to come from Europe. In September the total was 156 millions, in October 195 millions, in November 201 millions, and the December total is 246 millions.

This is only $4,000,000 short of the high record made in December, 1912. The excess of exports over imports for the month was 132 millions.

Doctor Edward E. Pratt, Chief of the Federal Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, told a Chicago audience that for the first time in history the United States is "experiencing the sensations of a real trade balance." For many years our exports have exceeded imports by from 250 to 650 millions annually, but the seeming balance was wiped out by other factors. For instance, it takes $350,000,000 a year to pay interest on the seven and a half billions of European money invested in this country. American tourists spend $285,000,000 annually in Europe; foreign-born Americans send home $1,500,000,000, while foreign charges paid by Americans to foreign ship owners add another $25,000,000. Thus the seeming balance in our favor is turned into an actual balance against us amounting in the last fiscal year to $35,000,000.

But now the tide is turning in the other direction, and in the last six months the trade balance actually exceeded remittances abroad by $133,000,000. This is the first time in history that the United States has found itself in a position in the financial world previously held only by Great Britain and France.

THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION

THE General Education Board, established and endowed twelve years ago by John D. Rockefeller, has just published the first comprehensive report of its work. As everybody knows, the purpose of the Board is to promote education throughout the United States, "without distinction of race, sex or creed."

Newspaper reporters frequently tell of some college endowment fund increased by a donation from the General Education Board, but it will surprise the public to learn that through this medium Mr. Rockefeller has already given more than $23,000,000 for the cause of education. Including this sum, and the funds still in the hands of the Board, and including further the money given by others as a result of the efforts of the Board, a total of $1,173,362,710.24 has been dedicated to the cause of education in the United States. And all this in twelve years!

It has always been the policy of the Board, "to use its funds with a view to inducing others to cooperate for the same general purposes." Thus, in giving $73,000,000 of its own money it has imposed conditions which resulted in others giving more than $44,000,000. Of the total sum thus disbursed approximately fifty millions has gone to colleges and universities, five millions to medical schools, one and a third millions to negro colleges and schools, and two millions for farm demonstration work, including boys' and girls' clubs. The Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research in New York has received ten and a quarter millions, and there remains in the hands of the Board, and available for its purposes, $34,000,000.

The Board makes this statement of the specific and fundamental policies governing its activities:

1. That all funds contributed by Mr. John D. Rockefeller to the General Education Board are given unconditionally.

2. That the General Education Board makes its contribution to colleges and universities upon four general principles:

a. That its gifts shall be conditional upon additional sums to be given by others.

b. Preference for cities of wealth and population as the private or a general system of higher education.

c. Systematic and helpful cooperation with institutions established by voluntary denominations.

d. Concentration of gifts in the form of endowment.

3. That gifts, once made to an institution of learning, are absolutely alienated from any control whatsoever by the General Education Board.

It is a popular diversion to criticise Rockefeller, and since most of the criticisms are based on ignorance they are, of course, unjust. It is a safe guess that ten times as much has been printed charging him with responsibility for social injustice, business wrongs, etc., as has ever been written of his benefactions. Big figures are not always impressive. But whoever carefully studies those contained in the report must conclude that John D. Rockefeller is doing more to bring higher education within reach of the whole people than has been done by any other one individual.

action of doctors in connection with the "rabies" disease. That is to say, that it is a natural detriment to the human race to have recently an inquiry from some parties in the east who are contemplating a trip to the Panhandle, to the coming summer. Something of the condition of our rabies-ridden city having gotten into an eastern paper they wrote to inquire if it would be safe to travel by the way of Colorado Springs during the "mad-dog" epidemic, and if it would not be safer to go by the way of Cheyenne. Of course we who are reason and judgment and are sober-minded, should laugh at such questions. Nevertheless there are many, even those with fat pocketbooks, who are now more healthful little city with a birth for just such a reason.

Between the doctors and their blind followers the indications are that at no distant date Colorado Springs may be dead at the "germ-things" will prove to be in another decade.

SOME DOG-GEREL

With Apologies to G. J. to the Editor of The Gazette:

"Trixie, Trixie, I've been thinking

What a blessing it would be

If in the Springs we no longer

For to trouble you and me."

DEAR LITTLE MISTRESS, I assure you
I am thinking just the same.
That the Council, led by doctors,
Seems to me most to blame."

DEAR LITTLE, CAN YOU TELL ME
What the fuss is all about?
Why the dogs must wear a bridle
On their heads when they go out?

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, WE ARE RABID
When out on the street we go,
Tho' at home we guard the baby,
And we romp with little Joe.

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, I KNOW THE SPRINGS
Since out to the Springs we came,
He told me of the Salem witchcraft,
This seems to me about the same.

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, I'M THINKING
The dog must be told
There's something about in this muzzle;
Do you think it can be sold?

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, CAN YOU TELL ME
How long it has been a law
That a dog, to protect his hind legs,
Wears a muzzle on his jaw?

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, I CAN'T TELL YOU
That to me's not very clear;
But I believe it's been a statue
In the Springs, now, most a year.

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, I THINK I'LL GET A MUSCLE
Put it on your precious head;
That will surely cure your rabies
As the learned doctors said."

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, I ENTREAT YOU,
Hark to my protesting wail!
The muzzle would be just as useful
If you'd tie it to my tail.

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, WHAT SHALL WE DO,
A fine we can't afford to pay;
Mammie works so hard at washing,
Also ironing every day.

DEAR LITTLE, MISTRESS, LET'S MOVE TO COLORADO CITY
Where there will not be a fine
People there, to protect against rabies.
Use an imaginary line.

POWERFUL LIGHTS ON STREET CARS.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Like many other people, I look out every night on my wheel, I ride up Telion, Wabash or some other street the cars run on, and suddenly the car comes in sight with its big glaring light; this may be in my way, but, on account of the glaring light in front of me, I may not see them, and the first thing that happens they are knocked down and hurt.

Recently the car company has put out one of two-bulb-sea lights. These lights are much worse than the others, for they are so bright that it is almost impossible to see all of them. They throw a deadly white light for about seven or eight blocks or more, of which there is positively no need whatever.

In Denver all lights on street cars are compelled to be screened, and as well as many others, think this would be a good plan to adopt here also. The killing of a woman by a street car on Colorado Avenue not long ago was due to bright lights in the air, and many other accidents have been caused by the same time. Therefore I and many others think that the car company should either cut down the power on the lights or screen them.

DOGS

To the Editor of The Gazette:

It is indeed an outrage to see letters like that of Susan McGroarty Scott of Regis, and others which try to represent dogs as good pets. I beg to inform the people of the country that the majority of Americans send home $1,500,000,000, while foreign charges paid by Americans to foreign ship owners add another $25,000,000. Thus the seeming balance was wiped out by other factors. For instance, it takes $350,000,000 a year to pay interest on the seven and a half billions of European money invested in this country. ## MYSTERIOUS POISONING WIPES OUT FRENCH FAMILY ON PLAINS IN EASTERN COLORADO

The long trip in the storm completely exhausted Coroner Kenaga and the post mortem examination was not held until late yesterday afternoon. Despite the aid of several physicians, the autopsy failed to determine the cause of death.

An alarm was immediately sent over the neighborhood and everything was done to save the living members of the family. A courier on horseback was sent to the Matheson ranch, seven miles away, the nearest telephone station. Messages for medical assistance were sent out and Coroner Kenaga was summoned.

LaLone and his wife had the benefit of the four children were taken to Durango, LaLone's yesterday morning at 7 o'clock. Last night Mrs. LaLone's condition was still critical and analysis of the nature of the poison has been determined. Physicians will be able to do but little for her.

Only a few scraps of bread, a little water and mother dying. The 16-year-old girl had quickly recovered but was too ill to answer any questions. She knew nothing that had happened since Monday.

The theory of asphyxiation was advanced yesterday but Coroner Kenaga last night declared that an examination did not bear out the theory that was burned in the stove and carbon gas might have originated there, but the door to the dugout fitted poorly and there were sufficient openings for fresh air to enter the room. Tuesday morning, it is believed that LaLone and his wife were too sick to go out. The weather was bitter cold. Deep snow covers the ground and it is several miles from the dugout to the nearest neighbor.
